No. 10

BOARD OF EDUCATION COMMITTEE AT COLLEGE

President and Secretary of the Institution Pay Visit to William and Mary.

The college had for its visitors last Tuesday Dr. Wallace Ruttrick and Dr. Ornett, the president and secretary, respectively, of the General Education Board. This organization was founded and endowed by John D. Rockefeller in 1904, and its headquarters are located in New York City. The board was organized for the philanthropic purpose of aiding deserving colleges with wisely placed gifts.

Drs. Ruttrick and Ornett arrived yesterday morning and spent the day inspecting the college and points of interest in the vicinity. Dr. Chandler and Prof. Hodges arranged a trip to Yorktown and Jamestown. The visitors were very favorably impressed with the flourishing appearance of the old institution which, located in the center of the nation's battlefields, has been subjected to so many of the shocks of war.

While nothing definite has been determined, those in charge of the endowment fund are in high hopes that a substantial gift will be made fund by the board.

COMMERCIAL MUSEUM ON FOOT

Prof. Power Collecting Material for First of Its Kind to Be Estab- lished in South.

The nucleus for a Commercial Museum is now being established in the school of business administration office in the Brafferton.

The work is under the direction of Prof. R. L. Power, who organized a similar collection at Boston University in 1914. When completed, practically every conceivable article in the world of commerce and industry will be displayed. Various specimens will be used to show the transition from raw material to the finished product, while charts, maps, and photographs will be used to show certain processes which it is not possible to show otherwise.

The college is the first institution in the South to establish such a Museum. It will be used as an illustrative teaching aid by classes in foreign commerce, world markets, commercial development, geography of commerce, in the business administration curriculum and similar classes.

GAMMA OMEGA ENTERTAINED

The members of Gamma Omega fraternity were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. K. J. Hoke on the evening of December the first. The entertainment of the evening was a bridge party, which was very much enjoyed by all of those present. It speaks well for the stability of this organization across the campus that their existence is well recognized by the faculty and townspeople.

PHI BETA KAPPA INITIATES ELEVEN

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS IN WILLIAMSBURG TO ATTEND THE ANNUAL CELEBRATION OF THE PHI BETA KAPPA—AUCKLAND GEDDES MAKES PRINCIPAL ADDRESS.

On the evening of Saturday, December 4, Phi Beta Kappa, the oldest Greek letter organization in the United States celebrated its one hundred and forty-fourth anniversary at its birthplace, the College of William and Mary. This occasion, which is the big formal event of the social year at the college, attracted many distinguished visitors from the national capital. The delegation from Washington was headed by Rear-Admiral Cary T. Grayson, an alumnus of the college and a member of the Alpha Chapter. Secretary of the Interior Payn and Norman Davis, under-secretary of state, were also among the guests of the college on this occasion.

Judge Duke, of Charlottesville, was in charge of the exercises of the evening, and made the address introducing the speaker of the occasion, Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador.

The Ambassador said that at first he had been puzzled as to the choice of a topic for this speech when it was called to his attention that the audience he was to address was largely of English descent and English sympathies. Then, in an address which was characteristically English in that no words were wasted, and every expression was pithy and full of meaning, he proceeded to explain that the revolutionistic happenings of the past few months were not of sudden birth, but the result of decades during which the lower classes had been gradually bettering their condition until they had now reached the point where they had intelligence enough to read between the lines of international diplomacy, but not yet enough to understand what they saw there. Although America is removed from the scene of the most violent social upheavals, she has started delving into world politics, and cannot hope to escape the effects of these movements. There is developing a tendency to disregard national lines and to recognize only class lines, which means that any and all nations affected by this tendency will undergo fundamental and violent changes. The only way in which the Ship of State of England and America can hope to navigate in safety the troubled seas of international politics is to throw up a breakwater of Anglo-American friendship. He cited the fact that American policies are in high disfavor among the nations of Europe; that we, to insure our own safety, should have an understanding with one of the European nations, and the most natural move on our part would be to ally with the English. The Ambassador held this out as a combination from which much benefit would accrue to both parties, but held out little hope for such a combination.

Sir Auckland was followed by Hon. R. M. Hughes, of Norfolk, who stated that he wished to counterbalance the Briton's scepticism as to the possibility of such an alliance by citing a few instances when it had proved true that "blood is thicker than water." He cited a number of instances in which American had lent helping hand to Briton and vice versa, bringing his remarks to a close with a dramatic reference to Chateau-Thierry and the Argonne Forest, and a statement that the proudest moment of his life had been when his two sons donned the khaki to take their places in the trenches by the sides of those of "Merrie England" in the battle for democracy. Mr. Hughes was given loud applause as he took his seat.

Judge Payne, the Secretary of the Interior, ended the speeches of the evening with a short extemporaneous talk.

The chapel exercises were followed by the initiation in the Philomathean Hall, where eleven distinguished men and women were taught the mysteries of the oldest fraternity in the United States. Among the initiates were Sir Auckland Geddes, P. C. Claxton, Federal Commissioner of Education, Miss Mary Johnston, the authoress; Don C. Seitz, of the New York World; Mrs. Munfort, William Pulsifer, of New York City; Miss Glasgow, Professor Charles L. Raper, Syracuse, N. Y., and a number of distinguished Virginians.

Then followed the reception in the Library, at which were present the Phi Beta Kappa members and a number of invited guests. The Library, like the Chapel, was decorated with the national colors interspersed with those of England. A delightful supper was served.

COLLEGE ORCHESTRA

MAKES DEBUT

New Organization for the Promotion of the Terpsichorean Art Leaves Favorable Impression on the Campus.

Last Friday night the weekly informal dance had the pleasure of having its own talent furnish the music for the weekly hop. The quartet is composed of Phillips, Keefer, Ammons, and Briggs, and their strains compared favorably with those of some of the Richmond orchestras who have played here in the last few weeks.

Although the girls were fewer in number than is usual at the weekly dances, an unusual amount of "pep" was aroused. With a little practice our local talent should develop a combination that will prove a ripping success. In Flanders, the quartet has an entertaining business manager, who might arrange a few trips in the surrounding country.

EXTENSION WORK IN NORFOLK

Dr. Chandler Explained the Work of the College in That City to the Rotary Club, and Asked Their Co-Operation.

That William and Mary's reputation is being greatly enhanced by the extension work in the various surrounding cities was proven by the interest being taken by the Rotary Club, of Norfolk, in the work being done in that city. At the regular weekly meeting last Tuesday Dr. Chandler outlined the plans of those in charge of the work to enlarge upon the present system and perfect it to the point where it will be the smoothest running machine of its kind in the country. William and Mary, with its thirty-eight extension classes, in which are enrolled over six hundred students, is the first college to attempt work of this kind south of the Mason and Dixon line, and in the near future, judging by the present outlook, will be able to claim the best system in the country.

Dr. Chandler, himself a Rotarian, asked the club to lend its encouragement to the work, and gave interesting statistics to show that the old fallacy which held that education is not essential to business success, does not hold true now, and that seventy-five per cent of the successful business men in the country, men who fall under the "Who's Who" classification, are men who are either college graduates, or have had some college education.

The club had as another guest at the meeting Milton Noble, who is now playing the leading part in "Lightnin'," while W. D. Lawrence, 'cellist, of York, Pennsylvania, played for the Rotarians. Dr. Chandler was cordially invited to address the club again in the near future, and discuss further his plans for the extension work.

We are greatly interested in the success of the endowment drive, and it might be mentioned here that this extension work will prove no small factor in aiding us to "go over the top." That the old College of William and Mary, which makes such proud boast of her sons who have proved the saviours of the nation in past, is still functioning in this important post of service to the State and nation, will remove the doubt of many a hesitant one who is deliberating whether or not to give his financial support to the drive.

How's This.

Pettis: You're some man, Dick.
Huffman: Well, I'll admit that.
Pettis: Yes, you're a good man when you're asleep.
Huffman: That makes me a good man about twenty-three hours a day.

Give Her Room.

Elderly Aunt (to little boy, sliding down banister): Here, Johnny! I wouldn't do that.

Johnny: Course you wouldn't. How would it look—an old lady like you.—Life.

FOOTBALL BANQUET

Letters and Honors Awarded at Big Spread Given to Football Team in the Dining Hall.

On the evening of Thursday, December 2, the varsity members of this year's football team were the guests of Coach Driver and Dr. Chandler at a banquet in the Dining Hall. Dr. Chandler praised the spirit shown by the men throughout the season, even in the last two games when they played with a crippled machine. Coach Driver thanked the team for the way in which they had co-operated with him in spite of discouraging reverses.

Letters were awarded to sixteen members of the squad, including Manager Bland. The names will be given in connection with the presentation of the letters.

The silver loving cups destined to go to the most valuable back and the most valuable forward were voted upon, and in each case resulted in a tie. "Monk" White and "Bake" Jones were the surviving aspirants for the best back, while Captain Close and Joe Garber were the candidates for that position in the line. The tie was broken the next day when Close and Sheppard, who were not present at the banquet, voted for Jones, but the line honor was still divided, Close giving his vote to Garber, while Sheppard supported Close. It is rumored that the donor of this cup, the College Shop, will see fit to give each of the men a prize. The backfielder's award is being presented by F. R. Smith & Son, Jewelry Shop. These awards will be made in the near future.

Wilson Elected Captain.

In the selection of a captain for the Orange and Black for '21 Dame Fortune placed her hand upon the head of "Prex" Wilson, the all-Eastern selection for center. Next year will be "Prex's" fourth on the varsity, and the honor was due his three years of faithful service. Wilson weighs around two hundred, which is not remarkable when we consider that he hails from Springfield, the home of the sun-cured hams. "Ferdie" Chandler was elected alternate. 1921 will be the third year on the varsity for Chandler, who hails from the Northern Neck. On the heads of these two and the men who aid them in forming next year's team lies the responsibility of wiping out this year's defeat at the hands of Richmond College.

SEXTET TRAINING HARD

Girls' Basketball Team Promises to Be the Best Ever.

All bruised and battered up, black and blue from scrimmages, filled to the brim with genuine old-fashioned "pep," the girls' basketball squad is making ready for a record-breaking year. Definite games have not as yet been scheduled, but several schools have requested first place upon the season's program. Coach Shaughnessy leaves Friday for Lynchburg, where she will attend a mass meeting of the physical directors from the various women's colleges of Virginia. At this meeting plans for the intercollegiate games will be discussed as well as topics of general athletic interest.

Basketball Popular This Year.

Interest and enthusiasm are running riot and athletics seem in a fair way to take their proper place in the lives of the women students of William and Mary.

Flippo Elected President

Martha Flippo has been elected to fill Elizabeth McMaurren's place as president of the Athletic Council. The other officers remain as they were elected last spring, and are, vice-president, Hortense Lewis, and secretary and treasurer, Martha Barksdale. Manager and captain of the basketball team will be elected shortly and will take their place upon the council.

With all the spirit developed among the players, however, and with all the work of manager, captain and council, the squad can not do justice to itself without the loyal support and co-operation of the girls as a whole. That loyal spirit is there. Show it by coming out to see every practice. It is your team, your school—it is up to you individually to show that you are interested and that you appreciate the work of your coach and players.

EYES FOCUSED ON GYM

Large Audience Watches Action of Twenty Candidates for Berths on This Year's Quint.

Twenty candidates responded to the basketball call issued by the coach yesterday, and the first day's practice gave promise of a quint that will be speedier and a better shooting aggregation than last year's five.

Only three letter men are in college, Capt. "Chet" Pierce, forward; Faulkner Young, guard, and E. D. Hudson, forward, on the 1918 team. Due to the absence of Kenneth Close, last year's center, Capt. Pierce was shifted to center, and it is not unlikely that he will play the pivot position this year.

Promising Material to Fill Vacancies

Some of the promising candidates for regular berths are Alva Cooke, Hampton High School star, who was prevented from winning a letter last year by injuries sustained in football; Horace Hicks, star of the John Marshall five of Richmond; J. T. Hundley and "Jimmy" Hatcher, of Richmond, and Joe Chandler, of Petersburg High, as forwards. "Bake" Jones, of Hampden-Sidney; "Prex" Wilson, Coles, of Toano High; "Tommy" Jordan, Carter Robinson, of Newport News High; Russell Stuart, of Hampton High; "Piggie" Pierce, last year's substitute, are fighting for the guard positions, while Hastings, of Maury High; Person, of this city, and "Flicky" Harwood, of Newport News, are battling for center.

A Likely Combination.

In staging the first practice game, Coach Driver selected Pierce for center, Hicks and Cooke forwards, and Jones and Young, guards. The other team was composed of Hastings, center; Hatcher and Chandler, forwards; Wilson, Jordan and Coles, guards. The coach also selected two other quints, and gave every man in the squad a few minutes play.

The dash and basketball skill displayed by several of the first year men augurs well for a speedy quint. It will probably be outweighed by nearly every team it plays during the coming season, but the indoor game is one in which speed and accuracy in caging the ball are of greater value than mere bulk.

But for an accident the early part of the training period last year, Cooke probably would have "made" the varsity quint. This year he is in good shape and, barring injury, likely will win a regular berth. The passing game employed by Captain Pierce, Cooke, Hicks, Young and Jones in their first workout was particularly pleasing to the coach.

E. D. Hudson, letter man and forward, of 1918, reported for practice on Tuesday, the second day of training.

Two of Last Year's Quint on Hand.

For the information of new students, last year's varsity quint consisted of Pierce, captain, and Henley, forwards; Close, center; Brooks and Young, guards. Close's departure leaves a vacancy at center, which Pierce plays well, both in passing and shooting. Brooks graduated last spring, while Henley is now a law student at the University of Virginia.

New York Times Classifies the Big Elevens of the Northeast.

Experts on the staff of the New York Times have made the following classification of the teams of the leading colleges of the East.

In making this classification only the teams of institutions lying north of a line drawn east and west through Washington and east of a line drawn north and south through Pittsburgh, were considered. Thus three of the best teams of the East, namely, Georgia Tech, V. M. I. and Centre College, were not mentioned in the classification which follows:

DANCE AT COLONIAL INN

Prof. Power's Classes Entertained at Dance—Music by "Dizzy Ducs."

Prof. Ralph L. Power was the host Wednesday evening to the members of his classes in Secretarial Science, Foreign Trade, and Statistics. The students were received at the Colonial Inn, and enjoyed an evening of dancing. Miss Taylor and Miss Shaughnessy acted as chaperons for the party.

Since coming here Prof. Power has done everything in his power to bring about a closer relation between the student and the instructor. He has arranged various gatherings partly of a social nature, at which, however, the students delivered short talks or read papers on subjects previously assigned.

By his spirit of camaraderie outside the classroom, when studies for the day were over, Prof. Power has become very popular with those acquainted with him. However, the friendly manner in which he treats his students has not lowered the respect his students hold for him. Instead, they seem to think more of him.

FLAT HAT CLUB MEETS

On the evening of Wednesday, December 1, the members of The Flat Hat Club were the guests of L. H. Settle and J. C. Lyons at the Phi Tau Beta House. Several questions of common interest were suggested and discussed, one of which was plans for increasing the attendance at the meetings of the literary societies. The change in the trend of popular opinion in recent years was suggested as a possible explanation of the small number interested. If the program could be adapted a little more to popular taste it is probable that a more general interest would be aroused.

Faculty members asked for and received an explanation of the new amendments to the constitution of the Student Council. They expressed satisfaction at the recent action taken in regard to drinking at dances.

Refreshments consisted of punch, sandwiches and cigars. The Flat Hat Club, in which representative members of the student body meet and discuss with men of the faculty problems of student life and government, is proving an invaluable aid to a better understanding between faculty and students.

A PROTEST

We, the students of the College of William and Mary, have long prided ourselves of the spirit of fellowship and good feeling which exists on the campus. We believe that every student and official of the college is deeply interested in the existence and maintenance of this college spirit. But a serious error has been made in the past week as to the proper method of fostering this spirit. When an error is made, it is to be expected that unbiased criticism will be made in these columns, in order that such a mistake will not be repeated.

There is but one method of creating true college spirit, and that is to recognize and commend the efforts of each of our fellows, according to their merits. We believe that this policy was not followed out in the case of the scrubs of this year's football team. On last Thursday night the annual banquet to the football squad was held in the Dining Hall; on this occasion only the letter men were invited to be present. The lowly scrubs, who, unrecognized and unapplauded, had struggled to the end of the season, were given no invitations.

On the man who makes a place on the varsity there are invented numerous ways of bestowing honors, but in the distribution of the spoils no provision is made for the scrub, whose work during the season has been one continuous grind; whose only goal the hope of making the varsity in some future year. That they did not win regular places on the team and yet had the determination to stick out the season, shows, in our humble opinion, a spirit superior to that of the varsity player who can look forward to participation in the games, and the honor attendant thereon. Without the scrubs there could have been no varsity!

Those responsible for not inviting the scrubs failed in courtesy, to put it mildly. Dr. Chandler noted the absence of the players who did not win letters and was greatly disappointed that such action had been taken. A precedent has been broken at this place where precedents are apt to be overemphasized, but this time the move was for the worse.

Let us hope that next season or any other season will not witness a repetition of such a slight to the scrubs.

HUSH! MYSTERY!

From somewhere in that unfathomable land where mysteries arise there have been wafted to our attentive ears rumors of a new organization on the campus, one which is taking into its hands the authority to enforce the long neglected "duc" rules, and in general to regulate student conduct.

For lack of a better name we shall call these nocturnal prowlers the "Night Riders," for their visits are made only in the dead of night. Their methods, from what little evidence we can get on the subject, are closely in imitation of those of that memorable organization which proved so useful in the Civil War aftermath, the "Ku Klux Klan." Visitation has been made, we understand, upon one "duc" on the campus, and the wildest speculations are in order as to whose turn will be next. The aforesaid "duc" reports that he was awakened in the dead of night by a tapping on the shoulder, and awoke to find his bed surrounded by some two dozen robed and masked individuals who informed him that he was wanted.

In fear and trembling the "duc" is said to have cut his story short and refused to tell more, lest the second visitation should contain more than a warning.

We are extremely interested in the doings of this secret band for we notice a marked change in the actions of the one victim to date. No longer does he proudly strut before upper-classmen, or refuse to wear a cap, but conducts himself as a well-behaved "duc" should.

'Tis said, in awed whispers, that many more too outspoken freshmen are being watched and visitations upon them planned.

"Who will be next?"

Nerve!

Dr. Young (explaining freezing point): "Now, argon or helium has the lowest freezing point of any substance known. Some of you chemistry sharks ought to know which it is."

Belanger (awake with a start): "What's that question, Doctor?"

Red: Where you going, Ox?
Marshall (on way from Gooch's Law to Geiger's Law): Going from Purgatory to H—!

Washington and Lee University.

The "Troubadours," the dramatic club of the University, staged an entertainment during the last week of November, which would have caused the wandering minstrels from whom they derived their name to turn green with envy. A number of skits, interspersed with musical numbers kept the audience laughing and applauding from beginning to end of the performance. From all reports Mack Sennett would not make a bad move to select a few of his bathing beauties from among the men of the University. A tour around the State has been arranged for the show.

Randolph-Macon Woman's College.

The students of Randolph-Macon were given an opportunity, some time ago, to hear Miss Adele Ruffin, the secretary of the South Atlantic field of the Back-to-Africa movement. Miss Ruffin presented, in interesting fashion, the plan which, headed by a powerful leader, Garvin, is on foot to encourage the members of the colored race in America to return to the land from which they were forcibly taken. The republic of Liberia has appealed to America to send her educated negroes, and it is hoped that the idea of an independent nation in their native haunts will appeal to many American negroes.

Hampden-Sidney College.

Alumni and supporters of Hampden-Sidney are planning a memorial to her sons who have given their lives in the wars of the Republic. This memorial is to take the form of a gateway to be placed at the entrance to the campus, and the estimated cost is $7,500.

Richmond University.

A colorful and interesting pageant was presented in the Red Cross Building on the evening of Friday, November 26, by the members of the Junior and freshman classes of Westhampton College. The pageant took the form of a Spanish wedding, in which Senorita Rita Baker, the president of the freshman class, became the bride of Senor Louise Shipman, the president of the Junior Class.

University of Virginia.

On the night of November 30, at Culpepper, Va., the Glee Club of the University presented "The Visiting Girl," their first product of the present year. The scenery and costumes used in the play were elaborate beyond the ordinary, and from all reports, the play should have a great success in its trip around the State.

Lynchburg College.

The first number of a Lyceum course to be presented by the "Y. M." and "Y. W." organizations was held in the college auditorium a few weeks ago. This first number was a harp-vocal ensemble, provided by the White entertainment bureau. As a means of entertainment it proved to be the most successful seen in Lynchburg in some time, and evoked wide applause.

Bone!

Phillips says that this Phi Beta Kappa affair that Dr. Hall founded is a pretty fair organization.

AT THE PALACE
WEEK OF DEC. 13 TO 18
MONDAY

Alice Brady, the popular Realart star, is to appear at the Palace Theater next Monday in her newest offering, entitled, "A Dark Lantern," an adaptation by Burns Mantle of Elizabeth Robins' fascinating story.

TUESDAY
Pretty Ethel Clayton in "The Thirteenth Commandment" by Rupert Hughes.

During the filming of "The Thirteenth Commandment," the picture which will be shown at the Palace Theater next week, Ethel Clayton, the star, was forced to go over the same scene five times and nearly brought the wrath of the director on her pretty head because she played it so well!

WEDNESDAY
Bebe Daniels, whom everyone will remember as the dashing beauty who used to romp in Harold Lloyd's comedies, a great idea from a Saturday Evening Post story and a fine cast of supporting players among whom are Harold Goodwin, who has been Mary Pickford's leading man, Jack Mulhall and Neely Edwards, are all responsible for the best comedy hit of the season in Realart's "You Never Can Tell," Miss Daniels' first starring vehicle.

THURSDAY
DUAL ROLE FOR
MME. NAZIMOVA

In "Madame Peacock," a Drama of Stage Life by Rita Weiman.

In "Madame Peacock," the picture she herself has declared her greatest since "Revelation," Nazimova will appear before local motion picture audiences Thursday at the Palace Theater.

This latest photoplay, from a story by Rita Weiman, will present the Russian star as Jane Goring, a brilliant stage celebrity who finds the heights of fame somehow do not bring the complete happiness she had imagined.

Written by one of the leading dramatic writers of the day and enacted by undoubtedly the most finished actress in the world, "Madame Peacock" is a masterly and telling portrayal of the soul of a remarkable woman.

At the same time, and later in the story, Nazimova comes to the front in a second character; as Gloria Cromwell, the gifted, nondescript little girl to whom Jane Goring is rather more than a goddess.

FRIDAY
PACKED WITH LAUGHS
"What's Your Husband Doing?" Is Gay Picture.

The motion picture coming to the Palace Theater next week is declared to be a laughing cure for the blues as well as an inside tip to young wives who are suspicious of their equally young husbands. It's called "What's Your Husband Doing?" and features Doris May and Douglas MacLean, the two lively and attractive young players whom Thomas H. Ince recently raised to stardom.
